A HOPEFUL SIGN OF THE TIMES.

It was Professor Swing who said in a recent sermon that "this country is making a new Catholicism as truly as it is making a new kind of Calvinism," and that "it needs one as much as it does the other." In the sermon he shows how the citizen becomes a thinker, and how human progress has kept onward, and the difference between the old days and the new, is thus stated:

The period that burned Bruno has passed away. And it must be remembered that the times that burned Bruno were not Roman Catholic times only, but they were also Protestant days, and that Bruno would not have been slain at Geneva fifty years before Rome slew the man who did not believe in converts and monasteries. Calvin condemned Servetus for not believing that Christ was the creator of the universe. Thus all through those black centuries the Romanists did nothing that was sui generis, but only that which the Protestants did or came very near doing.

Ex-President of Cornell University, Dr. White, has recently published the history of the attitude of the old church toward witches and "possession" by evil spirits. If one party was in this matter more horrible than the other it was the Protestant party. But the infamy stands rather equitably divided, and priest and preacher, Roman and Protestant city stand side by side in putting to death persons who seemed possessed of an evil spirit. When a good Roman Bishop, Miron, expressed his opinion that there was no such thing as witch, his own monks and clergy met and declared their bishop to be godless. The murders of Servetus and Bruno were only ordinary events in those times and they were made such by the unanimity of Protestant and Roman opinion.

One of the great leaders of the new spirit of the Catholic church in this country is Cardinal Gibbons. He stands for all that there is progressive in American Catholicism. He is a happy illustration of the scriptural saying that the humble shall be exalted. He was born of humble parents, and in early life was a poor grocer's errand boy, but now he is the prince of a great church, "in whose presence the proudest Roman nobles must stand in respectful reverence." This great divine is doing much for American Catholicism and human progress. He is the greatest Catholic mind on this continent. He is so great that when this man was only a bishop, and was called to a universal council at Rome to vote whether the pope should be deemed infallible, he at the early age of 35 years, "possessed the American wisdom and courage that could send in a negative vote. And that negative vote was cast before the Pope had been de-throned by Victor Emmanuel. Bishop Gibbons voted No because he lived in a land that knew there was no infallibility upon earth."

Bishop Gibbons' wisdom and courage marched onward, and to use the language of Professor Swing:

In the twenty years that have passed by since, the bishop has become a cardinal, but the higher office has not made him pass back to the reasonings and cruelities of the old church, for in a recent volume the cardinal says: "I abhor and denounce every species of persecution of which the Spanish Inquisition may have been guilty." And regarding the massacre of St. Bartholomew he says: "I have no words strong enough to express my detestation of this barbarian slaughter."

It is a hopeful sign of the times when so great a church prince as Cardinal Gibbons will take this advance ground and firmly hold it. Is no less a hopeful sign of the times when so great a theologian as Lyman Abbott, full of the spirit and of grace, has the wisdom and courage to preach a theology that is in harmony with the progress of christian civilization, and which does not partake of the spirit of the old Protestantism.

STRENGTHENING THE CIVIL SERVICE LAW.

The position of Senator Farwell on the question of repealing the civil service act, is certainly made unpleasant by the admirable tone of the president's message in regard to that law. It has been suggested that if a movement to repeal the law should fail, there will be an attempt made to defeat an appropriation of money for the support of the civil service commission. Nearly a year ago now, a motion was made in the house of representatives, to strike from the appropriation bill the salaries of the three commissioners, which in effect, it carried, retired them from service. But in all the house there were but twenty-five votes for the motion, and it is to the honor of the republicans that not one of them was a republican. So if Mr. Farwell thinks he will have any sort of following in his effort to carry a repealing bill through the senate, he will be disappointed. The vote in the house last year was indicative of the congressional sentiment on the subject of discontinuing the civil service commission, at that time, and certainly that sentiment has not changed in 1889.

President Harrison is wise in his suggestions on civil service reform. The present law under the administration of Mr. Cleveland, was a humbug. It never did amount to very much under its best administration by the republicans, but it was better than nothing; and under Cleveland it was worse than nothing. What congress should do if it does anything, is to broaden the scope of the law, make it more practical, more commanding in its respect, and more effective in its working. To do this, will require more money and more judicious legislation. Last year the appropriation was $34,000, and this congress is asked to make it $53,000, as the number of persons to be examined is constantly increasing, and consequently the expenses of the commission increase accordingly. Inasmuch as the civil service law is one of the cardinal principles of the republican party, the republican congress should be wise in its legislation of effecting the commission.

A COLD GOOD-BYE.

The defection of Mr. Silcott, cashier for the sergeant-at-arms of the house of representatives, is rather a chilling good-bye of the democratic authority of that body. But it is one of these misfortunes that will happen in the best regulated bodies and corporations, and therefore the democratic majority cannot be held responsible, although Silcott was a man of their choice, or rather of Mr. Lee-demon's choosing, in whom he had implicit confidence.

The democratic members deeply regret, of course, that one of their employees should make a bad showing of their control of the house of representatives. It is a sore scandal, indeed, on their party, but in this case, as in all other such cases, the republicans are magnanimous enough to hold no grudge or bitter feeling against the departing democratic majority. A good many members have lost seriously by this defection—democrats as well as republicans. It comes hard at this season of the year, as Major Euterworth puts it, "because Christmas is so near, and is to be provided for." Congressmen Clark, of this state, loses $3,762, and one or two members from Illinois lose quite as much.

The dishonesty of Silcott now satisfies the members of the house that the method of keeping their salaries in the hands of an irresponsible cashier of the sergeant-at-arms, is a poor one. There does not seem to be any business about it; and it is very likely, that hereafter a change for the better will be made.

The Manitowish Pilot wishes that some one would get hold of the editor of the Oshkosh Times and teach him the alphabet of common sense, so that he could discuss the Bennett law intelligently. Guess it would be pretty hard work to do such a thing as that. When a democratic paper wants to throw partisan hate in discussing a question of the importance of the Bennett law, intelligence would better him, and therefore he would rather not be bothered in that way. But the Pilot, which, while maintaining its partisanship on chief political questions, disposes with intelligence and patriotism, the Bennett law, and says, in answer to the Oshkosh Times: "In referring to the case instigated by Governor Hoard of a German boy, who had been educated in the common schools, winning a scholarship in a competitive examination, in which some of the contestants were college graduates, the Times asks if this is not proof that the Bennett law is unnecessary. Would he be successful if he was not educated in English? It is such training as this boy received that the Bennett law wants to give to all."

According to Secretary Noble's report, there are about 250,000 Indians in the United States, and they occupy or have control of about 116,590,106 acres of land. That means on an average 466 acres—a pretty good-sized farm—for every man, woman and child in the Indian tribes. Mr. Vilas once called the Indians "troglodytes of barbarism," which means one dwelling in a subterranean cave, and applied by the ancients to certain tribes living on the Nile. "Under our system these 'troglodytes' seem to be better off than a good many white men who have votes and who work hard for a living. We can hardly expect the Indians to hanker after civilization when being uncivilized is so greatly to their material advantage."

A writer who hasn't any sign of dyspepsia of any kind, tries to cheer up the people by these rose-water lines: Twenty years will probably add 35,000,000 inhabitants to the present population. A moderate estimate. How and where will these 35,000,000 hands find work? Not in the boundless west, already beginning to show its boundaries; not all of them, that is. By 1910, a hundred million Americans will have developed the neglected south, re-peopled the abandoned farms of the eastern and middle states, and will be eating all the food they raise, instead of, as now, discounting the future of their fields by feeding it to foreigners for present cash.

Mrs. Mackay is under the stimulant of victory. The Manchester (England) paper which said she used to be a washer-woman, and which was sued for libel, made any apology, and said she wasn't a washer-woman in the mines when John W. Mackay married her. But this doesn't alter the fact Mrs. Mackay was once a very poor woman, the wife of a poor miner in Nevada, that she used to wash her husband's clothes, and did it well as a faithful wife should.

It may be added that Mrs. John W. Mackay was a wiser woman than than she is now.

The bias of the ancient copperhead and of the old slave holder will soon be heard in the land. The president has proposed that a portion of our citizens shall no longer be deprived of their political and civil rights.—(Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat.)

There is nothing that makes a democrat madder than the republican effort to secure honest elections in the south. An honest ballot is anti-democratic.

Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll, who is to deliver the annual address before the New York state bar association January 13 next, now announces as his subject "Crimes Against Criminals." Instead of "The Imperfections of Common Law," as heretofore announced. The colonel will do well on that subject. He has a warm side for the unfortunate criminal.

Another English syndicate with one hundred million dollars capital, is coming to this country to gobble up some enterprises. How kindly do these English capitalists take to a protected country!

The government at Washington main tained its self-respect by not paying any official attention to the death of Jefferson Davis.

If the south will only bury the spirit of the lost cause with the remains of Jefferson Davis, it will be uncommonly kind to itself.

POPE LEO'S HUGE BANK.

The Enterprise to be Capitalized at $100,000,000.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—The Universal Association Bank and Trust company is about to be formed in this city, under the special benediction of the Pope of Rome, with a capital of $100,000,000, to receive, care for and invest, not only the enormous revenues of the church, but the private fortunes of its members. The monies of all other persons and sects are to be received and invested as well.

The company will proceed to establish a bank in the city of New York, with branches in the following foreign cities: London, Paris, Rome, Berlin, Hamburg, Vienna, St. Petersburg, Barcelona, and Havre. In the United States branches will be located at Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha, Toledo, San Francisco, and other places.

For years the pope has felt the need of a safe depository for his money in the event of war in Europe or serious trouble with the Italian government. America has been selected as the only country where an institute could be founded that would not be exposed to seizure and loss. With such a bank established in New York branches will be formed in all the leading cities of the world. The Italian directors are Colonel George William Cameron Laybourn, C. E., who has the benediction of the pope for the bank, and others. In France, Baron Charles de Bary, president of the bank, and in England, the affairs of the bank will be managed by well-known Catholic duke, whose name for the present cannot be mentioned. In America a gentleman well-known in the politics of the State of New York and in financial circles, have accepted the office of president. Nearly all the work of organizing the main bank is completed. The directors have all been chosen, but have not yet got together to take the last step—that is, the actual founding of the institution. It is expected this will be done on Monday or Tuesday of next week. Among the directors are many prominent men of the commercial, financial, and religious world.

Grave fears are expressed by some financiers at the establishment of a universal Catholic bank in America on account of the vast political as well as financial influence it will have. It is possible they claim, for it to gradually absorb the business of the entire country, and it is impossible to say what the ultimate result might be. The immediate effect of this institution in Wall street is awaited with keen interest by those who have watched its progress since spring.

To be assembled by the force imps dyspepsia, constipation and liver complaint—a trio of estatic births—is perfectly finished. This often happens. The hateful three, however, soon whisk away to the nether inferno when Eosetter's Stomach Bitters is employed to drive them. As a stomachic and alternative of disordered conditions of the bowels and liver, it is speaking within bounds to say that there is not in existence a medicine so widely known, so common, so useful and so effective as this. A few doses which have received such positive and authoritative sanction from the medical fraternity. The fact that it promptly relieves, then expels, the three maladies of most common occurrence, ought and does make it the most popular of family medicines. But in addition to that, it has achieved the fore most reputation as a preventive of and remedy for cholera, fever, rheumatism, nervous and kidney troubles.

A Steamer With 600 Passengers Missing.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 7.—Chinese advisers say that the German steamer Dahlgren, which left Singapore for Hong Kong on Oct. 25, has not since been heard of, and it is feared that she may have encountered the recent typhoon and foundered. If so, the disaster is an appalling one, for she had on board 400 passengers.

HOW THE SCARF-PIN SHOULD BE WORN.

Pretty Models for Late Autumn Gowns—Breakfast Caps—A Stylish Jacket and a Pretty Directoire Cape—Fashion Gossip.

Now in fashions, and scarves which are made in imitation of the pin in the place that it would occupy in the original, says the Haberdasher: for that reason the pin in a scarf is not a scarf, but a scarf in a scarf.

Placing the pin in a corner is a new and a senseless one, while the placing of a pin in the center of a scarf is an old-fashioned error.

There is an inclination to make the wearing of breakfast caps fashionable for young ladies as well as matrons, and certainly they are becoming ever more popular.

FATAL RAILWAY WRECK.

A LAKE SHORE TRAIN DERAILED NEAR CHESTERSTON.

Chesterston, Ind., Dec. 7.—The New York Central express, west bound, over the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern track, was wrecked at 11:30 A. M. at a sharp curve, thirty-five miles east of Chicago, last evening at 8 o'clock. The accident was caused by a misplaced switch, which threw the passenger train into a track of empty cars.

On striking the switch the engineer reversed his engine and put on brakes, but as the train was moving at a rate of thirty miles an hour, and the cars were but few rods from the switch, he was unable to avoid the crash.

The train consisted of the baggage car, two coaches, two sleepers and a chair car. The locomotive was thrown across the main track and is totally wrecked, the three front cars being crushed to pieces.

It is little less than a miracle that the passengers escaped serious injury. As it was one railroad employee was fatally hurt, two others sustaining serious injuries. The names are as follows:

GEORGE WILSON, fireman, left arm cut off just below the shoulder, and died three days later.

C. C. HARRIS, conductor, Elkhart, severely cut about the head and arms, and sprained both shoulders.

A. N. BICKER, engineer, Elkhart, arm and face badly hurt.

When the collision occurred a number of the passengers were thrown from their seats, but no one was seriously injured.

The wreck occurred on the main track of the Knickerbocker Ice Company. A train is stationed at Chesterston, which hauls ice to Chicago for the Standard Ice Company. This train placed the empty cars on the wrecked switch at 6:30 P. M. and ran out of the switch to Chesterston, reaching there at 6:45, ahead of the east-bound passenger train.

The east-bound passenger train broke the switch but passed over it safely, and no other train passed over the track until a few minutes past 10 o'clock, when the west-bound train came along.

TERRIBLE RAILWAY CRASH. Trains Collision, Instantly Killing Conductor Berry and Fireman Hickey.

DEBURE, Iowa, Dec. 7.—Two freight trains came together head on at Durango, Kan., last night, killing the conductor, Berry, and the fireman, Hickey.

St. Paul and Fireman John Hickey of this city were instantly killed. Conductor Berry was literally ground to pieces.

Ten passengers were injured, and the freight cars were scattered along the tracks. One freight had orders to wait at Durango for the other to pass. Three of the four sections into which the train was divided were in safety.

The fourth was supposed to be some distance away. The waiting train was standing still beyond a sharp curve. Brakeman Hall, assigned to flag the approaching train, was in his duty. An awful collision was the result.

FATAL COAL GAS. The Second Victim of a Coal Gas Accident.

Chester, Dec. 7.—The second victim of a coal gas fatality died at 903 Grand avenue this morning. Mrs. Olivia Knudson is the name of the unfortunate.

Yesterday morning Mary Lee, who lived with Mrs. Knudson, died of the same cause. The effects of the deadly gas from an open stove. Some hope was entertained that Mrs. Knudson might recover, but yesterday she died.

Today the coroner was notified of her death. An inquest has been ordered.

CRUSHED TO DEATH IN A WELL. One Man Killed by a Cave-In and Another Severely Injured.

Fort Dodge, Iowa, Dec. 6.—Near Rolfe, and on the edge of the Iowa prairie, a hardware man of that place, and William Kennedy were working at a pump when the ground caved in and Marquette fell into the well.

The man, who was a foreman, was struck against a jutting rock as he descended, crushing the skull and scattering the brains over Kennedy, who was down in the well.

Two firemen badly burned. Serious Accident at a $50,000 Blaze in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 7.—Fire broke out shortly after midnight at the five-story carpet mill on Howard street, owned by Jacob B. Leedom. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

The mill has been a fire hazard for some time. The last occupant, having failed several months ago, two firemen fell from a ladder and were badly hurt. They were taken to the Episcopal hospital.

Thrust Through With a Red Hot Iron. TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 7.—Thomas Harkins, a rough-looking, red-headed fellow, was caught in a trap set for him by a police officer.

He was stepping down to repair a break when a red hot iron rod from the rolls ran into his bowels, passing out above his head.

His only a few minutes later he died. The accident, Hotchkins came here from Worcester, Mass.

Baby one Solid Rash. Ugly, painful blotches, matrescence, no rest by day, no peace by night. Mothers and nurses failed. Tried all remedies, but all failed.

Cured by Cuticura. Our oldest child, now six years of age, when an infant six months old was attacked with a rash of the most violent kind.

—Mr. and Mrs. F. J. O'Leary entertained a company of friends very pleasantly at their home on North Jackson street last evening. A bountiful supper was served at seven o'clock, and with social chat and kindly reminiscences, the hours passed all too quickly. The company was composed largely of old settlers, and the evening was of rare enjoyment without cards.

—The celebrated "Banana" hams and breakfast bacon, only at Fred Vankirk's.

—Kate Kane, the lady lawyer, formerly of Milwaukee, has begun a suit against Alexander Blauvelt, the keeper of the Army police station, in Chicago, to recover $50,000 damages. Miss Kane has a habeas in her office and threatens to bury it in the head of the first policeman who molests her. "They kept me in a cell," states Miss Kane, "with a prisoner whose friends sent me to see, when I wanted to get out. Of course Hubbard will whitewash Beaubien and they'll try to down me, but I won't be downed. They don't want me to see any of the prisoners for two reasons: First, they don't want a decent woman around to see how the female prisoners are treated, and second, they have their preferences among attorneys, and get a 'dry' in cases where the prisoner has money to get bail. But I'll expose their nefarious schemes."
